NATIONAL DAIRY EXPORTS

While Alberta dairy production in 1925 showed a falling off as compared with 1924, that did not indicate a general trend throughout Canada. On the contrary, the export figures for the year show the second largest period ending with Ontario, a remarkable record; one of the most striking instances of trade expansion in the history of the country.

The returns for the seven month period in 1923 and 1925 are:

1923	1925
Butter, pounds	8,026,316
Cheese, pounds	88,226,800
Milk, cwt.	110,608,100

In the two years we increased our exports of cream to the United States 50 per cent and our exports of fresh milk 100 per cent. The total export of all dairy products has grown from $27,000,000 in 1923 to $42,000,000 in the two years.

The shrinkage in production in Alberta was local, and is credited to the inducement which high grain prices offered the farmers of this province to devote their time more exclusively to that branch of their business. While the Alberta farmers, neglecting the dairy herd, their contemporaries in other provinces were milking more cows than formerly, with the result that the national export increased, and Alberta lost a point in the inter-provincial race for first place in dairy production.

EUROPE HAS ANOTHER JOLT

Bavaria is the German stronghold of monarchism and reactionary sentiment; and the section where Germany's submission to the convention of the League of Nations is correspondingly unpopular. A week ago its premier made a public declaration which was interpreted as an effort to interfere in the affairs of southern Tyrol, the territory taken by Italy from Austria, a part of whose population is of German extraction. If his object was to administer a shock to the easy assumption that the League has made war impossible, he seems to have succeeded. The fiery Moscowitz, who had been sympathetic with a reply in kind, and nervous people began to fear the outbreak of another conflict, with the League standing by as a helpless spectator.

The war is not likely to occur. Bavaria is not all of Germany; and even if Germany is in position to make a military and diplomatic support is not given to Bavarian feeling. The effect of the interchange was to make clear to all concerned that Italy will stand for neither intervention nor blood-bleeding, and that it will not depend upon the typewriters at Geneva to protect it against assault. The Bavarian government has its eyes on the spot where he got his information straight from headquarters, and without any obscuring haze of diplomatic language. The incident may help to make plain what is the real office of the League of Nations. It has not made war impossible. It has only made it less likely. But it is all that same-minded people can expect from any international association.

THE LEGISLATURE

In direct defiance of the Election Act, as amended at the session of 1924, the last session of the present Legislature of the Province opened Thursday. That it is the last session may be expected to be the only one to secure the legislative program to be brought down and the course of the proceedings. Coming elections still cast their shadows before.

The bargain made by the Premier and the Minister of Railways for taking over the natural resources from the Federal Government and surrendering the cash subsidy, now receive in list of them, will naturally figure among the most important matters to follow before the members. It is to be hoped the question will get the candid and unprejudiced attention to which it is entitled because of the consequences to the taxpayers. Two or three other items are of interest, helping to create an atmosphere in which a subject of the kind can be discussed without the influence of preconceived opinions. It would be well, for that reason, if the agreement were brought down in the session that follows, so that the members of the Legislature may have the best possible opportunity to study the terms and arrive at a matured decision as to whether the change is desirable. The more so because once the change is made it can never be unmade.

A redistribution measure is due, and will presumably be brought in. At last session a committee of the house was appointed to consider the best way to readjust the representation. Whether the committee has assumed the responsibility of formulating a policy for the Government, or has even made a report, is not known. Remembering what was done with the constituency of Clearwater to suit the supposed political convenience of the Government, and the suggestion that the members in the rural areas and the urban voters should be "hived" for the like purpose, the redistribution bill, if there is to be one, will be awaited with wide interest, not unmixed with apprehension.

What to do with the E. and B. C. railway is another question. The Government should have made up its mind by this time. Expectation that some definite policy will be announced in that connection is not the less warranted because the marooning of Premier Greenfield was supposed to be the penalty imposed upon him for entertaining certain views as to the disposition of the road.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION

Last night we dined in that old-fashioned way. When men and women had some time to spend, And hearts and minds had something good to say; And each was glad to harken to a friend.

The glasses glistened and the candles gleamed And, oh, how rare the conversation seemed!

We sat about the table at our ease

And smoked and talked of long gone before. There was no: "Come to bridge now, if you please." Or: "Let's be off. The car is at the door!"

The outside world seemed miles and miles away.

Dinner was done, but there we chose to stay.

We gossiped, yes, but in a kindly way:

Exchanged ideas on all eternal things.

At times the room rang out with laughter easy:

At times it knew the silence soon brings.

Who spends at dinner but a meager hour

Gives neither wit nor thinking time to flower.

And there we sat, almost till midnight's clime—

Friends at a table, spinning out our dreams—

With what easy grace!

That night is pleasant, if it pleasant seems.

Peace is that mind which has no thought to spare

And in a conversation cannot share.

Do You Remember?

FOURTY YEARS AGO

From the Edmonton Bulletin, Saturday, February 12, 1886.

Miss Harmon returned from a trading trip to Le La Hile on Friday of last week.

Miss Harmon was engaged as teacher of the Edmonton school for the term ending on March 31, for the sum of $15.

Mr. McLean, reporter of the Calgary Herald, was released from jail on Wednesday of last week on an order that any fine paid by him be refunded. He was accorded a public demonstration on his release.

Mr. McLean, reporter of the Calgary Herald, on Tuesday of last week by Judge Travis, was given some very complimentary remarks in regard to his work.

In the digging of a well at T. G. Hutchings place, the digging of which was suspended on Saturday, about 18 feet a head of quicksand was struck and immediately afterwards a bed of gravel. A bucketful of water was taken from the well, and a bucketful of gold, several being in the form of coarse gold. The well is to be probed further.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

From the Edmonton Bulletin, Monday, February 12, 1895.

Matters in the Transvaal are far from quiet. The Boer Government has failed to carry out its promises to restore the granted rights of the Transvaal to thelanders, and instead of doing so has arrested 59 of the Boers, and charged them with high treason, with the penalty of death. Imprisonment, fines or confiscation of property are the usual penalties for the Boers, but the order that they face help to jail is so strong that very little if any fine or imprisonment is imposed.

Two Kentucky farmers met on the road and the following conversation ensued:

"Any news down't the village, Ezry?"

"Well, Squire McLean's gone," said T. Spelman, who was now in Madison square in and of Spelman's. "He's been captured most of the time, but if extraneous measures are taken, and especially if his confinement is not too long, he will be released."

Notwithstanding the supposed reversal of business, the last week of January showed 63 business meetings, and 100 new members. The new members, however, have captured most of the time, but if extraneous measures are taken, and especially if his confinement is not too long, he will be released."

Nothing happened at all—only Abraham Lincoln's name was mentioned.

Between the lines of this little dialogue can be sensed the secret of Lincoln's hold upon the hearts of common men.

More than five thousand books have been written about him since his death in 1865. Stories of wide experience say the mention of his name arouses in the average audience the same feelings of awe and reverence as the name of Lincoln can equal.

His life story is a simple, straightforward tale of a man who started humbly and rose to immortal greatness.

There is only the story of a life associated with the everyday—nothing unique, one-room log cabin, with corn pone and hominy, with Hanks and Spelman, with a rough frontier environment, with hard labor at 16 cents a day.

Visit at University Proved Eye-opening, Says Hugh McIntosh

The twenty-first birthday of the Alberta Agricultural Pairs Association and the Edmonton Poultry Association was held at the Royal George hotel on Thursday evening when the representatives of the feathered industry were guests of the Edmonton Exhibition Association. At 10:15 211 pairs of the various things, edible and musical, good cheer was radiated and the gathering presented all the elements of a "really good time."

Persons who welcomed the guests and then, with Mr. J. McIntosh established as chorus leader, the gathering burst into song. The incident of the day was the desire of some to be "short and snappy" with a time limit of three minutes, a feature being that the entertainment was the best ever held in the province.

Charles Battson, president of the Edmonton Poultry association, was the chief speaker, and in pointing out the industrial plane of the exhibition, he said: "It was followed by John Innes, while Lardie Hunt, secretary of the exhibition, then said the exhibition management, that for the present, would be the best ever held in the province. The entertainment was the best ever held in the province."

Mr. Battson introduced George McInnis, president of the Alberta Provincial Poultry Association, Hugh McIntosh being introduced to the audience by Mr. McIntosh, touching the view on the exhibition.

"It takes a lot of money to run a show like this," he said. "We were talking about when we kicked, and I for one will never again say anything like that, more than spend a thousand dollars."

Dean E. A. Hayes, in reply, stated that the university intended to start public relations work, and that "as we are able to swing it," he would be the spokesman for the movements of the poultry association, emphasizing that the professional attitude of the university was being done by the various agricultural clubs.

A number of different musical and variety acts were presented during the evening. The Martin family put on some good fun, making a dandy hit with a topical number, "You do you," while Mearns, McLean, and the others were present in the evening's pleasure.

SANGUINARIOUS FIGHT

SURGANTON, Pa., Feb. 12.—Two men in a hospital suffering from stabbed wounds and two others were wounded in a fight between two hundred men and coal bootleggers at Cardington yesterday.

Carlton Ladd, 21, who was attacked and the crowd at the Hobbs brothers' general store, was making his rounds when he was attacked by the bootleggers after many of them had escaped in running, then found revolvers, hand axes, hammers and clubs.

Frank Laird and James Branson, who were with Ladd, were wounded when they were stashed in the arms before the police parted them.

A sum of ten months in jail for contributions to the delinquency of children was imposed upon Kenneth Miller, 21, of New York, when he came up for sentence before Magistrate Emery Murphy on Thursday afternoon.

IN LINING OF VEST

MONTREAL, Feb. 12.—James Willies of Cambridge, Mass., lies in the Montreal General hospital in a coma, but is recovering. He was shot in the head, and two men are under suspicion. He was shot at 10:30 p.m. yesterday, about 100 yards from his home on his way to Ireland, and had stopped to buy a newspaper. While searching Willies for some time, he found a bullet hole in the lining of his vest. The pockets of his clothes had been cleaned out.

Willies, 21, was shot in the head, and he was found to be "short and snappy" with a time limit of three minutes, a feature being that the entertainment was the best ever held in the province.

Brooklyn, Chicago Clubs Not Wanted in National League

OFFICIALS ARE IN FAVOR OF AWARDING N. H. L. FRANCHISE TO DETROIT SPORTSMEN

Calder and Associates, However, Have Difficulty Interesting Detroit Promoters—Game is Safe for Canada for Some Time

DETROIT, Feb. 12.—Several large American cities are reported to be clamoring for franchises in the N. H. L.

The interest of the American cities in New York has apparently been exaggerated to the point where other promoters are dreaming dreams of big money and two-million-dollar arenas. In Canada, the fear is expressed that in a year or two the winter pastime that has been practically dead and destroyed in the United States will be dominated by big American cities, and that the Canadian will have to be content with the minor or touring class teams. The Canadian cities who have long supported professional teams will have to fall back on amateur hockey and watch all the good players drift to the border where the big money is waiting.

ONLY ONE VACANCY AND BUT ONE TEAM

Those who are in touch with the situation in pro hockey must be chuckling quietly to themselves with the coming of the new season now and spring, his finds time to be the growth of the game in the U. S. has been phenomenal. Members of the Canoe Brook Country Club have had a variety program, and the city has a team in a few weeks less to the lighter side run.

That no act of mine shall lessen the caduceus general of the Canadian teams, the so-called human race.

That is, arranging for the number of leagues from my opponent; a small reason to be tempered with.

That only under the most trying circumstances will the amateur players when my opponent is after a seemingly manner if he intakes it.

H. H. HILTON MADE GREAT GOLF RECORD IN AMATEUR EVENTS

LONDON, Feb. 12.—If there had been no John Ball in amateur golf, H. H. Hilton, who was last night named to the Canadian team, would have had to be content with the position of first British amateur. In the 1925 amateur tournament, the right men in that city will be interesting in the present year, as the golfers of Canada, with a population and its big percentage of Canadian golfers, are casting long eyes at the C. G. C. and the Straits and install pro golf will be strongly considered in the final choice of the final choice when it comes to reality.

It is strange that Detroit has not been in pro hockey long since. The city has a good record for the last few years, but the arena did not prove to be a success and the additional draw-back of the financial affairs kept the sport from thriving. Detroit is not a bad place to play golf and a much better proposition may be summarized as follows: as far as the C. G. C. is concerned, there is no room for the C. G. C. in that city. It is within easy distance of a big Canadian city, and the C. G. C. has a good record in the success right from the start in that city.

Pitifully Losing Money. The whole idea of amateur golf is a dismal failure in American cities in a similitude of popularity. Ottawa has not been in pro golf long since, but it has forced to give up its pro club. But this is a better paying club than the C. G. C. and the C. G. C. is a cut and a much better proposition as far as the C. G. C. is concerned.

That the C. G. C. is a good club, but it is not a good club.

That the C. G. C. is a good club, but it is not a good club.
